Young Ag Producers Get Together

Good conversation, great food and outstanding young agricultural producers came together on Friday, March 9 to celebrate the acknowledgement that Routt County continues to honor and support local production of food and fiber. Over 60 attended a social gathering at Rex's American Bar and Grill to network with like-minded folks who believe in the future of local ag. The cattle industry was well represented - but so were sheep, goats, worms and chickens as well as bankers, government employees and representatives from ag organizations, conservation

The Natural Resources

Conservation Service (NRCS) provides technical and financial assistance to help agricultural producers and others care for the land.

The assistance we provide is based on an understanding that the land - the landscape as a whole - must be the focus of conservation. Using this comprehensive approach, the people we help are able to help the land function as a living sustainable system that provides a high standard of living and a quality of life for today and for future generations.

Please contact NRCS at your local USDA Service Center, listed in phone directories under U.S. Government.

Special thanks to the sponsors: Mountain Valley Bank, Community Agriculture Alliance, Routt County CattleWomen, Routt County Cattlemen, Northwest Colorado Farmers Union, Routt County Farm Bureau, Routt County Conservation District and CSU Routt County Extension
